2015 Florida Arts Model Schools Designees

FAAE, in partnership with the Florida Department of Education celebrated the inaugural year of the Florida Arts Model Schools program in June 2015 by recognizing fifteen Florida schools that offer exemplary arts programs during the FAMS Recognition Luncheon. These Schools will model best practices for designated partner schools who wish to enhance or affirm their arts education practices. Congratulations to the 2015 Florida Arts Model Schools and their partners.

The 2015-2016 school year will mark the seventh year of the FAAE Arts Integration Symposia Series. The AISS provides unique programming in differing regions of the state and targets arts teachers, non-arts teachers, school administrators, community arts organizations, teaching artists, and arts advocates. The AISS provides professional development, identifies resources and best practices, disseminates information regarding state and national policy and delivers regional advocacy training. The goal of the AISS is to demonstrate best practices for student learning IN and THROUGH the ARTS.

2015 – 2016 AISS LOCATIONS

AISS – South Florida

Have no fear! If you missed the Central Florida AISS, there is still time to participate in South Florida. The South Florida Arts Integration Symposium will be held at Nova Southeastern University on November 7, 2016. This exciting event will feature a performance and talkback from the Lovewell Institute's Weight of Words. Breakout sessions topics include Lesson Plan Transformation: from Lecture to Arts Integration, JazzSLAM: Jazz Supports Language Arts & Math, How to Fit Visual Arts and Music into Your Content Area, Interactive Opera, and more. The event will also feature a panel discussion with arts experts answering the Who, What, When, and Why of Arts Integration. Registration is open at <http://www.faae.org/arts-integration-symposia-series>.

The Central Florida Arts Integration Symposium was held at Atlantic High School in Daytona Beach on October 3, 2015. This particular event demonstrated best practices for arts integration with a Harlem Renaissance Theme. Trent Tomengo, of the State College of Florida, delivered an inspiring keynote address. The event also featured breakout sessions for all content areas and an outstanding performance of Duke Ellington charts by the University High School Jazz Band.

THE HARLEM RENAISSANCE

STAR: State Teacher/Artist Residencies

a cooperative program of FAAE &

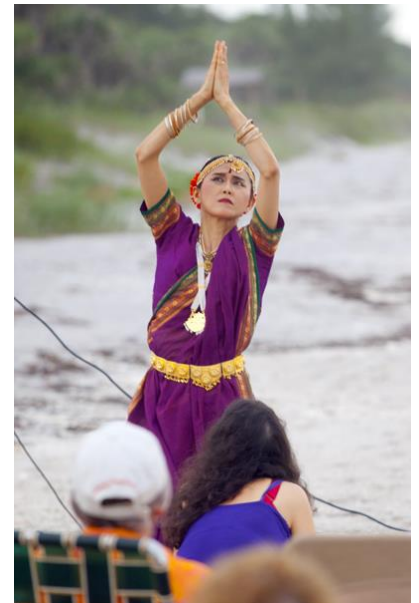

THE HERMITAGE
artist retreat

July 11 – August 31, 2016

The State of Florida is filled with talented, dedicated artists who are also talented and dedicated, certified full-time public school teachers. The lives of these particular people are spent trying to balance the challenge of expressing their artistic selves while pursuing their profession as a public school educator.

The STAR program is designed to honor and nourish the artist-educator by providing five public school educators from Florida with the opportunity to pursue their artistic work in the inspiring environment of the prestigious Hermitage Artist Retreat. Three-week residencies will be offered to two visual artists; two writers (fiction/non-fiction/poetry/playwriting); and one composer from July 11 – August 31, 2016.

A Hermitage residency is a gift of time and space for artists to attend to their work. There is no requirement to produce. It is intensely personal time for concentration AND a gathering of a community of artists from different disciplines who share and learn. Traditionally, invited artists have seized the opportunity and found themselves more productive than at any other time in their creative lives. Interested educators may apply beginning January 18, 2016.

CALL FOR Arts Lesson Plans and Resources

Submissions due Feb. 5, 2016

The Florida Alliance for Arts Education is seeking innovative, standards-based lesson plans and resources for K-12 dance, music, theatre, and visual art classes. All submissions should reflect best practices in arts education, informed by theory, research, and practice and cognizant of diversity and inclusion. All submissions should be copy-right free with permission granted for posting on the FAAE website, disseminating to Florida arts educators, and submission to the Florida Department of Education for posting on CPALMS. A panel of arts education experts will review all submissions and make publishing recommendations to FAAE. Any author who has at least ten lesson plans and/or resources recommended for publishing by the review panel will receive complimentary registration to the 2016 FAAE Summit ($150 value.) Visit <http://www.faae.org/call-for-arts-lesson-plans> for more information.

FREE Careers in the Arts Workshops for Middle & High School Students

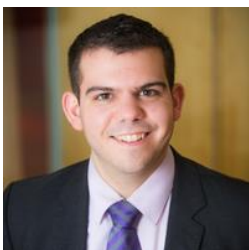

FAAE will host three FREE Careers in the Arts workshops to inspire and guide middle and high school art students in the pursuit of traditional and non-traditional arts careers. Regional workshops will feature engaging keynote speakers and breakout sessions presented by arts experts demonstrating pathways to creative careers. The breakout sessions will provide hands-on interactive opportunities for student engagement and feedback via mobile technology. Participants will be encouraged to bring web-based mobile devices to enhance the engagement and feedback activities. Be on the lookout for more details and registration info soon!

FAAE Summit
Arts for ALL!
June 23 - 25, 2016

Join FAAE Today!

FAAE is on a mission to ensure that EVERY student in Florida has a complete education which includes the arts. The arts are essential to educating the whole child, providing avenues for expression, and for understanding and appreciating the world in which we live. Research continues to show the many ways that students benefit from arts education. Please join us on this mission. There is a membership level for everyone – from teachers and school administrators to school districts and arts organizations to students and philanthropists.

When you or your organization join FAAE, you lend your financial support and you add YOUR VOICE to the chorus of voices supporting arts education for every Florida student. Florida's students deserve arts education; your membership can help us ensure they receive it.

All members receive special registration rates for FAAE programs and events, the FAAE newsletter, updates on state and local issues and education policy, and the latest research and best practices in arts education. Visit the www.faae.org/join-faae to read about more membership benefits.
